Warm summers, mild winters, working ranches, real cowboys and American Indians, and a rich agricultural heritage combine to create the Heart of the Okanogan.

OMAK Omak is home to the annual Omak Stampede and World Famous Suicide Race, always the second weekend in August. An Indian encampment held during the Stampede draws tribal members from around the country for dancing, drumming, and competition. Downtown Omak boasts a self-guided Main Street Historical Tour of murals and history.

CONCONULLY Conconully offers true “from your door” snowmobiling and ATV-ing, hunting and fishing. Conconully Museum focuses on the area as it was at the turn of the century and features everyday living including mining and ranching. The Spring/Fall Cattle Roundup in Conconully includes a cattle drive through town. Conconully State Park is a treasured destination for sportsmen and families.

In January, enjoy Conconully’s famous Outhouse Races. The three-person teams consist of a ‘rider’ and two ‘pushers,’ and the results are guaranteed hilarious.

UNIQUE PEOPLE & PLACES In 1903, Frank Matsura, a Japanese immigrant, arrived in the area as a cook’s helper. He became a beloved member of the community and world-renowned photographer, recording the frontier era and Native American heritage. The Okanogan County Historical Society houses many of Matsura’s photographs and a replica of his studio.

The historic Cariboo Trail runs from southern Canada to the Columbia River. A major trade route throughout its history, it first was used for fur trade, then later for the Canadian gold rush.

CHOPAKA LAKE

The North Okanogan is a geological jewel and a secret treasure to hosts of outdoor adventurers (both motor and muscle powered), as well as nature lovers and history buffs. It includes the Many Lakes Region on the west side of the Okanogan River and the Okanogan Highlands on the east side. The Many Lakes Loop Map will guide you through this area of both remote and easily accessible lakes and trails, providing excellent fishing, hiking and camping. Drive the Highland Historic Loop and discover a land rich in farming, mining and logging history. From the Okanogan River valley up through open grasslands and forested mountains, this route includes a variety of ghost towns, scenic views, trails and fishing lakes.

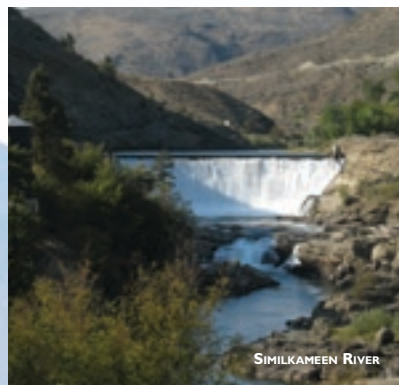

TONASKET: Tonasket has an abundance of antique shops, a great selection of restaurants, parks and opportunities for hiking, biking, climbing, fishing and water sport adventures. The visitor's information center (and gallery) is located on the main street beside Founder's Park and the district office for the Forest Service is at the north end of town.

OROVILLE: A few miles south of the 24-hour Canadian border crossing, Oroville has an abundance of historic and recreational opportunities - with Molson and Chesaw to the east and Nighthawk (a small 9 to 5 border crossing) and Palmer Lake and Loomis to the west. Oroville has the distinction of being the mid-point of the 1200 mile Pacific Northwest Trail (PNT).

REPUBLIC: Forty miles east of Tonasket on Hwy 20, Republic was known as "Eureka Gulch" in 1896, and a prolific gold mining town for 100 years, Republic is home to the Stonerose Interpretive Center. Here you can explore and dig your own fossils from the 50 million-year-old Boot Hill Fossil Site.

OROVILLE, WA

SIMILKAMEEN RIVER

ENTERING THE PASAYTEN

THE GREAT OUTDOORS: The Pasayten Wilderness Area and Sinlahekin Fish and Wildlife Preserve (with the state's most diverse butterfly population) are located near Loomis. Don't miss a great hike, climb, or bike ride at McLaughlin Canyon, Whistler Canyon, or the Similkameen Trails. The fishing is extraordinary, and each lake has its own fishing requirements. Current regulation at www.wdfw.wa.gov or stop at the Tonasket or Oroville Visitor Information Centers.

FAIRS AND RODEOS: The annual Chesaw 4th of July Rodeo is an old fashion family event. They ride cows in Chesaw and you can too! The Tonasket Founder's Day celebration includes a parade, family BBQ, and rodeo (1st weekend after Memorial Day). At the spring and fall Okanogan Family Faires (near Tonasket) you will find folks trading goods, playing music, sharing arts and crafts, dancing and singing.

ARTS AND CULTURE: The Old Oroville Depot Museum is the original train depot, built in Oroville in 1907 and the largest Great Northern Rail Road depot building still in useable condition in the Pacific Northwest. The Old Molson's Ghost Town and School Museum is a great place for a walk back in time, don't miss the old pioneer buildings, farm machinery, mining equipment and other historic artifacts.

UNIQUE PLACES AND EVENTS: Tonasket's Okanogan River Garlic Festival is a celebration of the harvest with gourmet foods, produce, arts and crafts and entertainment in August. In January, while the ice is still on the lake catch some fish and you are sure to win a prize at the Molson's NW Winter Ice Fishing Festival.

KIDS AND PETS: The new Tonasket Water Ranch is open and is a great stop for cooling off the kids. Another great idea is to stop for a swim at Oroville's Deep Bay Park on Lake Osoyoos.

HUNTING INFORMATION

Hunting opportunities—ranging from upland game birds and waterfowl to big game—abound in Okanogan Country. Thousands of acres of federal and state public lands make the area one of the West's premier venues for rifle, black powder and shotgun enthusiasts as well as for bow hunters. Our vast public lands offer an amazing variety of animals. Big game species include mule deer, whitetail deer, bear, elk, moose, bighorn sheep, mountain goat and cougar. Small game includes bobcat, coyote, fox, raccoon, lynx, badger, beaver, rabbits and hare.

With over 600 lakes, North Central Washington provides some of the best bird hunting in the Pacific Northwest. Migratory waterfowl and upland game bird species include pheasant, wild turkey, grouse, quail, chukkar, ptarmigan, goose and duck.

Upper Columbia River Region Highlights

The mighty Columbia River flows through Okanogan Country and creates some of the state's best fisheries and water recreation opportunities. The famous Grand Coulee and Chief Joseph Dams create lakes along the river's path, and the waters of the Columbia fill Banks Lake as well. Each of these lakes offer year-round fishing and also create recreation destinations featuring water access, boating and jetskiing, parks, campgrounds, and golfing.

Rufus Wood Lake—Located upstream of Chief Joseph Dam, Rufus Woods Reservoir is 51 miles long with a year-round open season including trout and kokanee, walleye, yellow perch and smallmouth bass. There is a state park with camping and boat launching facilities, two nearby golf courses (Gamble Sands and Lakewoods Golf Course) and an Army Corps of Engineers hunting access area with boat launch. Free tours.

Banks Lake—Banks Lake is a 27-miles-long, mile-wide reservoir formed by the North Dam near Grand Coulee and the Dry Falls Dam near Coulee City and is filled with water from Lake Roosevelt (part of the Columbia River). Most of the shoreline is ringed with basalt cliffs and talus slopes, rocky outcrops and shrub-steppe habitat. There are about 23 islands in the reservoir from one to several acres in size. Steamboat Rock, in the northern part of the lake, has varied wildlife, fishing galore, and birdwatching opportunities, including common loons, bald eagles, mule deer and peregrine falcons.

Lake Roosevelt—The upper Columbia River gorge, within which Lake Roosevelt is a national recreation area spanning three areas: the Okanogan Highlands, the Kootenay Arc, and the Columbia Plateau, each of them featuring completely distinct geographic features and creating an incredibly diverse region. Lake Roosevelt Reservoir was created in 1941 by the completion of Grand Coulee Dam. Includes 130 miles of water, 27 campgrounds, 22 boat launches, 10 swim beaches, and historical sites such as Fort Spokane Visitor Center and Museum and St. Paul's Mission. For more info call Lake Roosevelt National Recreational Area: (509) 754-7800

Lake Pateros —Located upstream of Wells Dam, this twenty (20) mile long reservoir contains a variety of fish species, but it is noted for steelhead, summer chinook, and sockeye salmon fisheries. Largemouth bass, smallmouth bass and walleye are also available.

The Grand Coulee Dam—At an awe-inspiring span of 5,223 feet, the Grand Coulee Dam is the largest concrete structure and largest electricity-producing facility in the United States. North America's largest outdoor laser light show is projected nightly onto the face of the Dam from Memorial Day through the end of September; and a Fourth of July pyrotechnic show is launched every year from its top. A Visitor Information Center at the Dam offers information and free tours.
